TATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Completed by 1884, the Valley Railroad Stone Bridge stands as an outstanding example of stone masonry construction and ranks among the most scenic bridges in the Commonwealth. The bridge was built as part of the project extending the Valley Railroad line from Staunton to Salem via Lexington. By 1884 the company had laid 62 miles of the proposed line, thus completing the railroad as far as Lexington. The Commonwealth's railroad commissioner reported in 1884 that the company had spent $23,000 on bridges between 1882 and 1884, and although not specifically itemized, it is presumed that a portion of this sum paid for the stone bridge.

The Valley Railroad continued to operate under that name as late as 1900, but all its motive power and rolling stock was owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad which was also its major stockholder. The line was ultimately absorbed into the B & O system, and for many years it was known locally as the Valley Branch of the B & O. The B & O discontinued the branch in 1942 and sold off its right-of-way soon afterwards. The section between Staunton and Harrisonburg was acquired by the Chesapeake and Western, a local freight line, but the right-of-way south of Staunton was sold off in parcels, and the track, including that across the stone bridge, was taken up. The Virginia Department of Highways purchased the bridge in 1965 through its acquisition of right-of-way for Interstate Highway 81. Although the bridge no longer serves any specific function, the Department of Highways maintains it as a scenic landmark.
