ABSTRACT

The City of Winchester, founded in 1744, is the oldest city west of the Blue Ridge Mountains in the Commonwealth of Virginia. Located at the northern entrance to the Shenandoah Valley, the city is the commercial, financial, and governmental center for the surrounding area, and is the seat of Frederick County. The city encompasses 9.3 square miles and is located at the crossroads of U.S. Highways 11, 17, 50, 522, Interstate 81, and State Route 7. Interstate 66, terminating 11 miles south of the city at Interstate 81, provides a third transportation artery to Washington, D.C., which is located 72 miles to the southeast. The city's 2010 population was estimated at over 26,000 with 7,650 single-family attached and freestanding houses and over 4,000 multi-family dwelling units.

The City of Winchester has long been a leader in historic preservation in the Shenandoah Valley. Preservation of Historic Winchester, Inc. (PHW), was founded in 1964 as a local private non-profit organization to encourage preservation in the area. Among its many programs, PHW has created a nationally acclaimed revolving fund from which monies are used to buy and sell threatened properties. Historic easements and covenants are placed on the properties that are then resold.¹

In 1967, the city created its first local historic district, which was expanded in 1976. This locally designated historic district contains 1,242 properties. The Winchester Historic District (DHR File Number 138-0042), encompassing approximately 1,058 properties, was listed in the Virginia Landmarks Register in 1979 and the National Register of Historic Places in 1980. The boundaries were expanded in 2003 and 2008, adding 17 additional properties to the historic district. The commercial core of the historic district was designated a Virginia Main Street City in 1985, and the Old Town Development Board has played an important role in encouraging the reuse and rehabilitation of many of Winchester's historic commercial buildings.

The original survey completed in 1976 has proven to be an invaluable resource to the City of Winchester as a planning guide. The survey also provides the baseline information used by the Winchester Board of Architectural Review (BAR) as it makes determinations concerning the appropriateness of proposed alterations to structures and buildings, and occasionally their demolition. As such, it has been an invaluable tool for residents, business owners, and city agencies – the BAR specifically – and for PHW as it advocates for the continued preservation of the city's architectural resources. However, the usefulness of the 1976 survey is compromised by outdated information. Many smaller or secondary buildings and structures were not included in the original survey, as is the case on the outlying areas of the historic district, both local and National Register.

This more current comprehensive survey is intended to update, re-assess, and better describe the city's inventory of historic buildings and structures, noting the array of architectural styles, influences, and phases of development. With a more accurate base of information, the City of Winchester can better undertake projects relating to the economic viability of the Winchester Historic District and decisions relating to applications placed before the BAR. This updated survey will also add to the Virginia Department of Historic Resources' Data Sharing System (DSS) database for researchers and public agencies and can be used as a foundation for future surveying initiatives.

As part of the procedures for the Certified Local Government (CLG)-funded program, the City of Winchester hired EHT Tracerics, Inc., a firm of architectural historians and historic preservation planners, to conduct the on-site survey effort. The Survey of Buildings and Properties within the National Register Winchester Historic District was conducted between November 2010 and August 2011 by the professional architectural historians and historians of EHT Tracerics under the direction of the City of Winchester's Planning and Zoning Department. Maral S. Kalbian reviewed of the survey documentation and final report, providing her local expertise and vast knowledge of architectural history to the final products. The project consisted of the reconnaissance survey of 591 properties, continuing efforts of the Phase I survey completed in 2008. The initial phase, also completed by EHT Tracerics, recorded 416 properties within the historic district.

Each resource documented was architecturally defined, physically assessed, photographed with black-and-white film and color digital imagery, and evaluated for its contribution to the architectural context of Winchester. The impressive number of historic properties within the targeted survey area dictated methodology based largely on the city's needs and historic documentation, including maps, books, and reports. The Sanborn Fire Insurance Maps were utilized as a means to properly identify construction dates or ranges and determine alterations to the historic resources in the National Register Winchester Historic District. Ultimately, the dates of construction and integrity assessments were based on the historic maps, documentation, and visual inspection of the resources at the time of the survey. In most cases, because this was a reconnaissance survey, the assessments of eligibility and application of related National Register Criteria for each property were based primarily on the architectural merit and physical integrity of the resources.

INTRODUCTION

Project Purpose and Goals

The Survey of Buildings and Properties within the National Register Winchester Historic District is a two-phased project intended to update the documentation of unrecorded and previously recorded buildings and properties within the National Register-listed Winchester Historic District. This effort was intended to survey and document the remaining properties within the 1980 National Register Historic District of the City of Winchester. The initial survey completed the recordation of 416 properties, leaving approximately 600 to 800 properties for this second survey phase.

Scope of Work

The project anticipated the survey of previously identified properties as well as those resources not previously identified within the historic district. The survey area, as outlined in the contract, was to include the boundaries set forth in the National Register nomination of 1980.² Each resource was to be assessed, surveyed, documented, and photographed to the reconnaissance level on VDHR field forms, which were altered to accommodate this urban setting. The survey process was to allow for a thorough study of each resource and its building materials, architectural style, use, and date of construction substantiated by historic maps, permit cards, oral histories, and site visits. All of the properties surveyed were to be entered into the Department of Historic Resources' Data Sharing Software (DSS) database. Utilizing DSS, a final survey report would be produced that presented the findings of the survey. Within the established significance, each property was to be assessed for its contribution to the Winchester Historic District. Additionally, at the request of the city, a bound reference book was to be prepared for the city and PHW. This document, which also included all of the properties recorded as part of the initial phase in 2008, was to include the survey documentation (site description, architectural description, and statement of significance) and a single digital image for each property.

Staffing

The project was funded through a CLG-funding program administered by VDHR, with the City of Winchester and PHW contributing additional monies. The Survey of Buildings and Properties within the National Register Winchester Historic District was contracted to EHT Tracerics, Inc., an architectural history firm specializing in historic preservation. Laura V. Trieschmann served as Project Director/Senior Architectural Historian, responsible for overseeing the completion of the project. Paul Weishar, serving as survey manager, was responsible for directing the on-site survey, preparing the final survey report, and conducting the final assessment of the resources. The on-site survey, data entry, production of the survey products, and research was conducted by architectural historians Maria Dayton and Kate Ritson, and surveyor Lauren Trice. Production assistance was provided by Jeanne Barnes, Dana Litowitz, Molly McDonald, and John Liebertz of EHT Tracerics. The project was conducted in collaboration with Maral S. Kalbian, who provided locally based expertise.

² Properties located within the expanded boundaries were not surveyed because the documentation required for the expansion was up to the current standards; it was completed in 2001 and 2008

RESEARCH DESIGN

Objectives

The goal of this survey update was to complete the two-phase comprehensive survey of the Winchester Historic District. This project would allow for a more thorough survey and understanding of each resource's contribution to the city's heritage. The project was intended to: 1) synthesize and complete documentation of previously identified resources into a computerized database format; 2) compile documentation into a bound reference book; 3) collect additional information and survey previously unidentified or unevaluated historic resources; and 4) heighten public awareness about historic properties in Winchester, Virginia, to encourage citizen appreciation of their history.

Scope of Work

The project was organized into basic tasks:

- 1) The survey update would encompass the on-site study and documentation to the reconnaissance level of over 591 historic properties in the City of Winchester; and
- 2) The recommendation of a boundary expansion for the National Register Winchester Historic District.

Methodology

Approach

EHT Tracerics approached this project as a coordinated effort of experienced, professional architectural historians working with the Winchester Planning and Zoning Department and Development and the Virginia Department of Historic Resources (DHR) in an effort to produce a cost-effective survey that would meet DHR's high standards, as well as provide necessary information to the City of Winchester.

This was accomplished by working closely with the City of Winchester and its representatives; by taking full advantage of the Data Sharing System (DSS) database to document and analyze historic properties; by understanding the history and geography to ensure that each resource was analyzed appropriately within the city's historic context; by utilizing years of sound survey experience to guarantee an efficient effort; by employing a management methodology that is designed to result in an on-time performance; and by maximizing the potential of an experienced staff.

To achieve the desired products, EHT Tracerics organized a team with the credentials, skills, and successful experience to do the work. Essential to this team was the local expertise of Maral S. Kalbian, LLC. The team was composed of six members: a Project Director/Senior Architectural Historian, Project Manager/Senior Architectural Historian, Survey Manager, and three Architectural Historian/Surveyors. The Project Director/Senior Architectural Historian managed the administration of the survey project. The Project Manager ensured accuracy of documentation. The Survey Manager directed the tasks and was responsible for preparing the Final Survey Report. The Architectural Historian/Surveyors conducted the on-site surveys—synthesizing, consolidating, undertaking data entry, locating the properties and resources, and conducting research on each property as appropriate. They worked together in the field, surveying and documenting resources that met the survey criteria. Working in concert, the team evaluated the resources based on the same exacting standards utilized in the 2008 Phase I survey.

Basic to the survey methodology were DHR standards and requirements, which categorized each resource within the historic contexts defined for the City of Winchester. Performed as a collaborative effort, this allowed for on-site determination of a resource's integrity and contributing status to the historic district. The survey plan followed a systematic grid pattern, which ensured that no resources were overlooked. Further, this methodical approach revealed building patterns throughout the city as the survey progressed.

The recordation of the properties to DHR standards ensured the successful completion of the contract. Implementing the Survey Design, EHT Tracerics surveyed 591 resources to a reconnaissance level. Each reconnaissance-level survey form recorded a single property, including its primary and secondary resources. The completed form documented a primary resource with a detailed physical description as well as a brief description of any secondary resources on the property. It also included a brief evaluation of the property as an entity, placing it in a local historical and architectural context. Labeled, black-and-white photographs and color digital images documenting the resources accompanied all forms. The photographic documentation included a range of one to four views, with an average of two to three views of the primary resource and a minimum of one photograph per historic secondary resource or group of secondary resources if located close together. The photographs sufficiently illustrate the architectural character of the primary resources. A simple site plan sketch indicating the relationship between primary and secondary resources was completed for each surveyed property. The site plans were prepared neatly in pencil on graph paper. The site plan sketch included the main road and any significant natural features. Copies of the relevant sections of USGS Quadrangle maps and county base maps were submitted with each group of five forms as required by DHR.

Work Plan

Implementation of the work was based on an incremental process as outlined in the following nine task descriptions.

- Task 1: Project Meetings
- Task 2: Archival and Historical Research
- Task 3: On-site Survey
- Task 4: DSS Data Entry
- Task 5: Photographs and Maps
- Task 6: Inventory/Evaluation
- Task 7: Survey Report
- Task 8: Final Project Meeting and PowerPoint Presentation
- Task 9: Submittal of Products (Interim and Final)

Task 1: Project Meetings

Correspondence between the City officials and the project team was ongoing and included review of the scope of work, discussion of findings and issues, and dialogue of the anticipated outcomes and recommendations. A windshield survey of the project area was conducted at the start of the project. Regular progress reports were prepared by Tracerics.

Task 1 included project organization, which consisted of establishing a work schedule; coordinating with City of Winchester staff and local repositories; establishing work assignments; arranging for the necessary materials to undertake the survey and documentation efforts; and maintaining the project schedule. Activities included regular monitoring of the project's progress and attendance at required progress meetings. The project was managed through a system of task-oriented hierarchy. Incremental monitoring was combined with milestone review as "Activities and Products" for each task listed in the work plan.

Tracerics/Maral Kalbian staff completed DSS Training prior to participating in the on-site survey.

Activities and Products related to Task 1 included:

- Windshield Survey
- Regular Progress Meetings/Reports
- DSS Training

Task 2: Archival and Historical Research

Archival and historical research, including primary and secondary sources, was conducted at local, state, and national repositories. Documentation related to the historic contexts of individual properties, City of Winchester, and Frederick County was collected as necessary. Oral histories with knowledgeable local historians, residents, property owners, and business owners were conducted to augment the documentation effort. All archival documentation collected was entered into the appropriate property records in DSS. This documentation included dates of construction, occupants and property owners, associated individuals, and related historic contexts and themes.

All existing survey files and any other relevant documentation related to the historic context and themes of the City of Winchester were reviewed extensively. This work was completed prior to and continued throughout the on-site reconnaissance survey effort.

Repositories and collections investigated included:

- City of Winchester
- Handley Regional Library
- Winchester-Frederick County Historical Society
- Local Museums
- Archives of the Virginia Department of Historic Resources
- Library of Virginia
- National Register of Historic Places
- National Park Service
- Library of Congress
- National Archives

Activities and Products related to Task 2 included:

- Research Design
- Research on City and County History and Prominent Residents
- Inventory of Repositories
- Bibliography

Task 3: On-Site Survey

The on-site survey methodology plan established as part of the first phase of survey in 2008 was examined and augmented as necessary. The survey documentation effort, commencing on Loudoun Street where it concluded in 2008, surveyed and resurveyed 591 properties in the National Register Winchester Historic District. All documentation for properties previously surveyed was reviewed and updated, enhancing the existing survey files to acceptable, current standards.

The survey documentation included, but was not limited to:

- A detailed physical description of the primary resource as well as a brief description of each of the secondary resources on the property, and a description of the overall character of the property and its setting, noting landscape features.
- An evaluation of the property, placing it in its local historical, architectural, and/or cultural landscape contexts, beyond the parameters of the property's neighborhood, historic district, community, region, and state as appropriate.
- An evaluation of the resource's integrity and contributing or non-contributing status within the historic district.

All work followed the standards of DHR and properties surveyed met the Guidelines for Conducting Historic Resources Survey in Virginia.

Site plans (not to scale) were prepared for each property, indicating the relationship between the primary resource(s) and any secondary resource(s). Public sidewalks, street or roads, any significant natural features, and neighboring properties were noted. The site plans included depictions of landscape features such as walkways, driveways, plant materials, and structures such as fences, walls, and associated outbuildings. Maps provided by the city were used as location maps.

Activities and Products related to Task 3 included:

- Survey Methodology Plan
- Reconnaissance-Level Survey
- Site Plans

Task 4: DSS Data Entry

As on-site and archival work was completed, the photographs and archival data were studied. Each DSS property record was completed and expanded by the team responsible for the on-site survey. The editing process was completed prior to draft and final printing of the DSS records by an architectural historian familiar with the property, the contexts of the City of Winchester, Frederick County, and the requirements of this documentation project.

The existing documentation for the properties previously surveyed and entered into Integrated Preservation Software (IPS) or any other database was reviewed, and entered or updated in DSS as appropriate.

Draft documentation forms were submitted on disk to the City of Winchester for review. The submittal included documentation for the first ten properties on disk and in hard copy, with copies of the photographs and maps.

All architectural surveyors assigned to this project completed DSS training prior to the reconnaissance survey and data entry.

Activities and Products related to Task 4 included:

- DSS Training
- Interim Documentation Forms for 10 properties
- DSS Data Entry for 591 properties
- Final Documentation Forms for 591 properties

Task 5: Photographs and Maps

Photographs were taken at the time of the on-site survey; as necessary additional photographs were taken following the initial on-site survey effort. The photographic documentation for reconnaissance-level includes:

- One set of 4x6" black-and-white, archivally stable photographic prints for each property documented (for DHR).
 - The number of views for each property and the labeling followed the Guidelines for Conducting Historic Resources Survey in Virginia. The photographs were placed in archivally stable photo sleeves.
- Two sets of digital images. The images consist of tiff files saved as 1600x1200 pixels at 300 ppi or larger.
 - Digital versions of the photographic prints submitted with DSS forms.
 - Images are saved on a DVD. Each file name begins with the resource inventory number followed by the project name and year, and a brief description (for example, "138-5003-0001_2010_front_elevation").
- Two copies of the following maps:
 - A site plan sketch of each property;
 - A copy of the USGS topographic quadrangle section with the location of the property indicated; and
 - City-base map indicating the location of each property.
 - Each map has the property address, boundaries, street names, scale, and north arrow.

The first ten site plans and digital images of the first ten properties surveyed were successfully submitted to the City of Winchester for approval.

Activities and Products related to Task 5 included:

- One set of 4" x 6" Black-&-White Photographs
 - full-frame glossy archival
 - labeled in pencil
- Negatives for Black-&-White Photographs
- Negative List

 - labeled with resource number, year of the photograph, and brief description
- Two sets of labeled USGS Maps for all properties
- Two sets of base maps
 - highlighted copies of the maps prepared for each property
- Two sets of sketch site plans for each property

Task 6: Inventory/Evaluation

A detailed inventory generated by DSS and edited by EHT Tracerics was prepared that identifies each resource included in the survey project. The resources were evaluated for their contributing or non-contributing status and applicable criteria based on the established historic contexts identified for the National Register Winchester Historic District.

Activities and Products related to Task 6 included:

- Inventory and Evaluation of resources surveyed

Task 7: Survey Report

The survey report included, but was not limited, to the following:

- A list of all properties with date of construction of the primary structure, by address.
- A list sorted by DHR identification number that includes style, date of construction, primary and secondary resources, and contributing status to the historic district.
- A list sorted by DHR identification number that includes applicable historic context(s) and National Register Criteria for each property.
- Number of contributing and non-contributing resources.
- Inventory map with individually plotted resources indicated by DHR identification numbers and coded as appropriate for non-contributing status. Color coding is unacceptable. Instead it shall be done in gray scale, hatching, stippling, or other method reproducible by black-and-white only printer or copier.
- Preservation recommendations including potentially eligible districts, boundaries, individual eligible properties, and additional survey work.
- Bibliography of references cited.

As an alternative to the traditional printed survey forms generated by DSS, the City of Winchester requested a bound reference book. Copies of this multi-volume book are archived with the City of Winchester and PHW. This document includes one- to two-page sheets for each of the properties surveyed in 2008 and 2010-2011. The properties are organized alphabetically by street, then numerically by address. The information, prepared in InDesign, includes the following:

- Survey Report with Inventories, Overview History, Maps, Summary, and Bibliography
- Bound Reference Book

Task 8: Final Project Meeting and PowerPoint Presentation

A meeting was held at the completion of the project to discuss the outcome of the survey effort. This included a PowerPoint presentation summarizing the findings of the National Register Winchester Historic District survey.

The digital presentation was prepared for the general public. The illustrated talk included an outline of the project, its purpose, value in preservation, the historical and architectural development of the community, historic resource highlights, and preservation possibilities. The electronic presentation and note script were prepared so that DHR, the City of Winchester, and/or PHW may present the program again.

SURVEY FINDINGS

CITY OF WINCHESTER DATABASE HOLDINGS: PHASE 2

The survey and documentation of properties in the National Register Winchester Historic District was completed to the approved standards of the Virginia Department of Historic Resources (DHR). The results of the survey project are as follows:

Five Hundred Ninety-One (591) properties were recorded to the Reconnaissance Level. Each Reconnaissance-Level Survey Form documented a single property, including primary and any related secondary resources.

- Five Hundred Ninety-one (591) properties were evaluated for their architectural contribution to the historic contexts of the City of Winchester. Accordingly, each property was fully surveyed to the reconnaissance level on a DHR survey form. Each form provides a detailed physical description of the primary resource as well as a brief description of the secondary resources on the property. It includes a brief evaluation of the property, placing it in its local historical and architectural context. Labeled, black-and-white photographs and color digital images that adequately document the property's resources accompany each form. Adequate photographic documentation included several views of the primary resource and a minimum of one photograph per historic secondary resource or group of secondary resources if they are located close together. Photographs illustrate the architectural character of the resource. A simple site plan sketch of the property indicating the relationship between primary and any secondary resources is included for each surveyed property. The site plan sketch indicates the main road and any significant natural features such as creeks and rivers. A copy of the relevant section of the city-base map is filed with each form. The survey area was marked on a USGS map.

As a result of the two survey phases, coupled with the documentation collected for the two recent boundary expansions, the Virginia Department of Historic Resources' Data Sharing System (DSS) database includes 1,075 records for properties within the National Register Winchester Historic District that are up to date and meet the most current survey standards.

OVERVIEW OF THE HISTORY AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE SURVEY AREA

The City of Winchester, the oldest city west of the Blue Ridge Mountains in the Commonwealth of Virginia, was founded in 1744. The city was incorporated by an act of the Virginia General Assembly in 1779; the charter remained in effect until 1874, when Winchester was incorporated as an independent city. Located at the northern edge of the Shenandoah Valley, Winchester was laid out in a grid pattern, first by Colonial James Wood who created 156 lots in 1752 and by Lord Fairfax who added an additional 201 lots in 1759. The land was sold through a system of in-lots and out-lots, which were inseparable and thus ensured adequate acreage was provided for gardening and pasturage. The purchasing agreements stipulated construction of a building "either of framed work or squared logs, dovetailed, at least of the dimensions of 20 ft by 16 ft" within two years on the inlots. Construction of buildings on out-lots was not permitted, initially discouraging growth beyond the limits of the town. By 1760, almost 200 houses lined the streets, with another 150 buildings added by the turn of the nineteenth century. The city continued to prosper with about 4,000 residents living in 500 houses by 1836.³

As the 1980 National Register nomination explained, construction of new roads and improvements of old roads occurred soon after the close of the American Revolution. Most significant was the completion of the Winchester and Potomac Railroad in 1836. Although not located on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, this secondary line linked Winchester and the lower Shenandoah Valley with the Potomac River, thus providing new commercial outlets for Winchester's wheat stores and its hide, fur, tobacco, and hemp trades.⁴

Located at the junction of nine major roads with access to rail lines, Winchester was considered an important military location during the Civil War. In 1862, General Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson, commander of the Valley District, established his headquarters in Winchester at 415 North Braddock Street (138-0042-1088/138-0033). Military action in and around Winchester remained intense until the Union victory at the Third Battle of Winchester on September 19, 1864, secured the lower Valley. A local newspaper described the town many months after the war had ended in January 1866:

Winchester is now deeply scarred all over with the injuries it received. The main street, where mills and stores stood, has been razed to the ground; the Courthouse stands an empty shell; many of the private dwellings in the vicinity are a heap of ruins; and there is not a street or lane in which property has not been destroyed.... Most...houses have been sacked more than once, and there are few families that have not lost everything they once possessed.⁵

Reconstruction, albeit slow, began in earnest, transforming Winchester into a manufacturing and commercial center for the lower Shenandoah Valley. The 1870 census recorded 751 houses with a population of 4,477. By 1886, Winchester's industries included glove and shoe factories, furniture factories, tanneries, foundries, flour mills, farm implement factories, soap factories, and sumac and bark mills. By the end of the nineteenth century, the commercial apple industry began to supplement the manufacturing industry, with over 100,000 trees producing seasonal shipments containing nearly one million bushels.

Marking the city's historical significance is its architecture, with buildings ranging in date from the mid- to late eighteenth century through to the twenty-first century. This wide array of buildings allows for a comprehensive study of nearly every architectural style from the late Georgian through the Modern Movement, with vernacular log dwellings standing alongside grand architect-designed residences and builder-influenced ranch houses. The residential buildings surround the commercial core, which is lined with nineteenth- and twentieth-century buildings that speak to the ever-changing influences of the American consumer. Augmenting the residential and commercial buildings are religious, governmental, and civil institutions, such as the Winchester Church of Christ, Frederick

One of the oldest buildings identified in the survey of the historic district is the circa 1810 single dwelling constructed by John Slagle at 125 West Boscawen Street. An excellent example of the Federal style, the building stands two stories in height on a solid masonry foundation of bricks. The main block, which is typical of early-nineteenth-century architecture in Winchester, is constructed of log and wood frame now clad in weatherboard siding. The house, used soon after its construction as a haberdashery by owner Josiah Massie, was originally three bays wide with a side entry. It was enlarged by the addition of a single end bay sometime in the late nineteenth century. The side-gabled roof, indicative of residential buildings of the Federal style, is covered in standing-seam metal, edged by a simple boxed cornice of wood, and marked at the western end by an exterior-end brick chimney. Modestly finished, the house is pierced by double-hung windows framed in operable louvered shutters. Like the window openings, the single-leaf entry opening has a narrow wood surround lacking a molded profile. By 1921, the building was used as a grocery and is currently providing office space.

The two-and-one-half-story Waite-Hunter Residence at 119 South Washington Street was constructed circa 1820 by Obed Waite, a prominent Winchester civic leader and one-time mayor. Originally designed as a Federal-style dwelling, the building underwent substantial alterations circa 1870 under the supervision of then-owner Major Robert W. Hunter, editor of the Winchester Times and representative to the Virginia House of Delegates (1874-1875). The alterations, which were in keeping with the very fashionable Gothic Revival style of the Reconstruction period, included enlarging the window lights, adding stylized entry porches, and raising the roof, which was then adorned with stylized scrolled brackets.

Set on an elevated foundation, this dwelling is constructed of five-course, American-bond brick. The symmetrically placed fenestration includes 2/2 double-hung windows framed by louvered shutters, narrow molded surrounds and sills, and soldier brick jack arches. The central entry on the façade holds a paneled wood door flanked by eight-light sidelights and surmounted by a gauged brick jack arch. A one-story, three-bay porch, set on a brick pier foundation with wood lattice infill, shelters the entry opening. The half-hipped roof is covered with standing-seam metal and is supported by pilasters and fluted Tuscan wood columns. Scrolled wood brackets and turned wood balusters adorn the porch. A single-leaf door symmetrically placed on the second story above the main entry door indicates a balustrade once edged the porch roof, or the current porch replaced one that stood two stories in height. Slate shingles cover the building's side-gabled roof, which features a centered cross gable indicative of the Gothic Revival style. An ogee-molded wood cornice with wood brackets and a corbeled brick cornice adorn the roof. The centered cross gable is flanked by slate-shingled jerkinhead dormers. Each dormer holds a pentagonal-shaped, double-hung window. Interior-end brick chimneys mark the gable ends of the roof.

In the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, limestone was the most popular construction material utilized in Winchester because of its availability. The durability of the material has ensured the longevity of the stone buildings, despite the destruction endured during the Civil War. The limestone building at 28-30 Wolfe Street, erected circa 1850, is an excellent example, having been associated with a complex of warehouses, mills, and packing houses of German Smith's Sumac Mill.

The two-and-one-half-story building extends eight bays along Wolfe Street; the fenestration pattern suggests the structure at one time housed two buildings or separate uses for the mill or another owner. Now altered, the first story has entry openings in the first and fifth bays; the former being Colonial Revival in style as twentieth-century fashions demanded. The window openings have 4/4 and 6/6 double-hung, wood sash that varies from small to elongated. Window openings have been added to the fourth and eighth bays. The fourth bay holds a tripartite window composed of a 4/4, double-hung wood sash and four-light fixed sash set over paneled spandrels. A 16-light fixed window over paneled spandrels is located in the eighth bay. Fenestration of the second story is uniform, with each opening holding 8/8 double-hung, wood sash. The building's side-gabled roof is pierced by six front-gabled dormers with ogee-molded cornices and returns.

One of the most captivating properties documented as part of the architectural survey of the National Register Winchester Historic District is Glen Lee on Fairmont Avenue. The architect-designed dwelling was built during the Reconstruction period for Judge William L. Clark. An exercise in restraint, the 1869 dwelling exhibits stylistic influences of the Villa form in a rectangular-shaped building with rear additions. Set on a solid foundation, this brick structure has five-course, American-bond brick coursing. Painted, the exterior takes on a smooth aesthetic, belying the concentrated architectural embellishments that define this two-story, three-bay single-family dwelling. A shallow, standing-seam metal hipped roof is obscured by exaggerated eaves with scrolled modillions, dentils, and an ogee-molded cornice. Two-light wood-sash windows pierce the wide frieze board. Extending from the interior sides of the dwelling are four brick chimneys with raised stacks, corbeled caps, and heavy concrete hoods with brick supports.

A one-story, full-width porch dominates the façade. Set on brick pier foundation, this wood-frame porch has a half-hipped roof of standing-seam metal. A bracketed eave, ogee-molded cornice and a molded frieze are supported by paired Ionic columns with fluted shafts and angle capitals embellished with egg-and-dart and pearl molding. Centrally located on the façade, the double-leaf main entry holds paneled wood doors and a segmental transom set in a narrow, square-edge wood surround. Flanking the door opening are elongated window openings that contain paired 4/6 double-hung wood sash with wood sills and rowlock brick surrounds. Delicate molding accompanies the segmental arched windows. Second-story fenestration consists of a 4/4 double-hung, wood-sash window with drip molding and paired 4/4 windows with polygonal hoods.

The house is set back from Fairmont Avenue, with access gained by a vehicular bridge constructed by the Pittsburgh Bridge Company in 1889. In exchange for the right-of-way through the property, the railroad company erected the bridge as well as elevated the drive leading to the house, and lined it with a wrought iron fence. Although the tracks have been removed, the indication of the railroad line remains. Nelson and Buchanan acted as agents for the construction of the single-span Queen truss bridge, which was set on coursed limestone abutments. The wood plank deck is set on iron stringers while riveted I-beams extend above. Decorative railing embellishes the utilitarian structure.

The single-family dwelling at 218 South Washington Street is representative of the domestic architecture constructed in the City of Winchester at the end of the nineteenth century. Constructed circa 1890, this two-and-one-half-story, three-bay dwelling was designed in the Queen Anne style. It is constructed of Flemish-bond bricks, now painted, with a basketweave brick frieze accenting the cornice line. The hipped roof features deep, overhanging eaves with block modillions. A dormer, with a half-hexagonal-on-hip roof, holds paired single-light wood windows topped by multi-light transoms. Two interior brick chimneys with elaborately corbeled brick caps rise from the roof. Nearly square in form with an original canted bay and ell, the main block is augmented by a one-story porch with a projecting half-octagonal bay. The porch was constructed circa 1925, replacing an earlier, less-stylized, full-width porch. The dwelling is entered through double-leaf, wood-frame glass doors surmounted by a gauged brick jack arch; the opening is set off-center. The first-story openings have 1/1 double-hung sash, while those on the second story have 2/4 double-hung sash. All are finished with operable louvered shutters, rock-faced concrete sills, and gauged brick jack arches.

One of the grandest houses in the City of Winchester is located at 5 South Washington Street. The Gables was constructed in 1899 for William H. Baker, heir and proprietor to the Baker Chocolate Company. The house, designed in the Queen Anne style of the Victorian era, was the work of renowned architect George Franklin Barber. Barber, a Midwestern carpenter, architect, and publisher, practiced architecture in Knoxville, Tennessee, from 1888 to his death in 1915 and became one of the most successful architects in the United States, largely through a mail order blueprint business driven by published architectural catalogues and a monthly magazine. A study of his works, published frequently in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, suggests The Gables was a catalogue house, which most likely was custom design through extensive correspondence for an additional cost.

The asymmetrical design of The Gables is composed of a hipped main block, with multiple projecting turrets and towers. The varied roofline is covered with square-butt and fishscale slate shingles. Multiple dormers and corbeled chimneys mark the roof. A one-story, wrap-around porch extends from the façade (east elevation) and a two-and-one-half-story ell extends from the rear (west) elevation. A round tower projects from the north elevation, topped by a drum-dome roof pierced by three front-gabled dormers. An ornate metal finial, like those marking the ends of the ridge on the main block, stands at the crown of the roof. A canted tower anchors the northeast corner. An interior-end chimney rises from the north side of the tower, projecting through the bell roof. The shaft of the chimney, disallowing window openings on this side of the tower, is ornately finished with molded and corbeled bricks with a tripartite arrangement like a lancet window. The steeply stepped shoulders are capped with stone, while two raised panels stretch up the stack to the bands at the top. A canted tower also projects from the southeast elevation of the main block. Complete with attic story, the tower is crowned by a tall domical roof. A three-sided bay extends from the south elevation. It has a clipped gable roof and canted oriel window.

Set on a solid foundation (material not visible but presumably brick), this masonry building is faced with stretcher-bond bricks. A double-leaf opening marks the façade (east elevation) and holds wood doors with ornamental glass. It has a surround composed of fluted pilasters and a flat-arch of rock-faced concrete. The single-light transom is leaded glass with a molded frame. The house is fenestrated with double-hung window openings that vary in shape and size depending on their location. All openings have 1/1, double-hung, wood sash with rock-faced concrete sills and flat-arched lintels. A canted oriel window of wood frame projects from the center bay of the façade. The oriel is off center with the main entry, pediment of the wrap-around porch, and dormer. The window openings lack ornamental surrounds but the oriel is finished with taenea molding on the architrave. A similar oriel window is located on the second story of the three-sided bay projecting from the south elevation. The most ornate opening is located on the north elevation between the canted and round bays at the second story. This large opening is semicircular with a rock-faced concrete sill, cast stone imposts, and molded brick voussoirs. The window is divided into three parts with molded mullions and a wide upper sash holding the stained glass.

The hipped roof is crowned with metal finials and features overhanging eaves and an ogee-molded wood cornice with large, scrolled brackets. A large, inset dormer with a sleeping porch marks the eastern slope of the roof over the façade. It has a clipped gable roof topped by a finial. The upper half of the face of the dormer has a stuccoed finish with half-timbering. The frieze has applied molding in a semicircular pattern and coved soffit with ogee-molded cornice. Banded columns and turned wood posts support the roof of the dormer and rest on the slate-shingled solid balustrade. Solid spindlework frames the opening. Double-leaf French doors provide access to the sleeping porch. A second clipped-gable dormer projects from the northern slope of the roof. The face is covered with shingles. The dormer is fenestrated with paired 1/1, double-hung, wood-sash windows.

The porch, which is well hidden by mature trees and shrubs, wraps around the façade and south elevation. It is set on a solid rock-faced concrete-block foundation with single and paired Ionic columns and turned balusters. Like the inset dormer overlooking the façade, the porch has solid spindlework ornamented with scrolls and brackets. The plain frieze has a taenea molding with ogee bed molding and overhanging cornice with a very narrow profile. The roof of the porch is covered in asphalt shingles, with raking cornices and molded soffits. The enclosed tympanum over the main entry is adorned with scrolls, medallion, rosettes, and wreath. A metal finial rises from the ridge of the pediment. A secondary entry with a similarly adorned pediment is located on the south elevation between the three-sided bay and the canted tower. As the porch wraps around the southeast elevation, it is covered by a conical roof, creating a gazebo-like sitting area.

Constructed circa 1900, the vernacular single-family dwelling at 123 West Leicester Street presents the typical I-house form, rising two stories in height and extending three bays in width. It is set on a solid foundation of limestone with German wood siding cladding the façade and weatherboard siding on the secondary elevations. The side-gabled roof is covered in standing-seam metal, finished with overhanging eaves and cornice returns. Matching interior-end parged chimneys rise from the side elevations. The central bay of the symmetrically fenestrated façade holds a single-leaf door surmounted by a transom. A one-story porch with chamfered posts and scrolled brackets was added circa 1920 to shelter the entry, possibly replacing an original porch. Window openings have 2/2 double-hung sash, each with a square-edged wood surround and sill.

Also dating from the turn of the twentieth century is the I-house at 418 Fairmont Street. Although vernacular like the dwelling at 123 West Leicester Street, this house is more stylized with Italianate-style elements. Set on a solid foundation of limestone, the wood-frame structure that is now clad in vinyl siding. The side-gabled roof, adorned with a molded cornice, has a centered gable rising from the western slope over the façade. The two interior brick chimneys have decorative recessed brick panels and corbeled caps. The central bay of the façade has a single-leaf door framed by fluted pilasters. It is symmetrically flanked by 2/2 double-hung, wood-sash windows, each accented by wood sills and operable louvered shutters. The one-story, full-width porch features Italianate-style detailing, including scrolled brackets. A three-sided, canted bay with 1/1 double-hung windows projects from the side elevation and a two-story ell extends from the northernmost bay of the rear elevation.

By the turn of the twentieth century, the need for more housing prompted the construction of twin dwellings, a very popular domestic form in urban settings. This two-and-one-half-story building at 111-113 West Cork Street is four bays wide, giving each dwelling a side entry and flanking window opening. Constructed circa 1915, the building is vernacular yet influenced by the architectural styles of the Victorian era with its entry porches supported by turned wood posts and square wood balusters. The symmetrically placed window openings hold double-hung sash, which has been replaced. Set on a solid coursed limestone foundation, this wood-frame building is now clad with aluminum siding. Standing-seam metal covers the side-gabled roof, which features a centered gable rising from the northern slope over the façade. Now also clad in aluminum siding, the overhanging cornice has simple cornice returns. Matching interior-end brick chimneys rise from the side elevations.

One of the most recognizable commercial buildings in Winchester is the Tudor Revival-style building at 17-21 West Boscawen Street. Dating from circa 1915, this building is prominently located at the intersection of West Boscawen Street and South Indian Alley. It stands two-and-one-half stories and is three bays wide with an addition to the east. Set on a solid foundation, this masonry structure has Flemish-bond brick coursing on the first story of the north and west elevations. Six-course, American-bond brickwork finishes the entire south elevation from the foundation to the upper gable end. The upper stories are half-timbered with exposed beams with decorative cross-bracing. A gambrel roof, with its gable end aligned to the primary north elevation, is covered with asphalt shingles. Flared eaves terminate at overhanging eaves with false rafter ends.

The main entry, located in an open vestibule with a pressed stone segmental arch on the north elevation, holds a double-leaf door with five-light sidelights and a transom. The interior walls of the vestibule are composed of ten-light, floor-to-ceiling windows. Flanking the main entry are storefront windows with concrete lug sills and hoods. The second story features paired 20/1, double-hung, wood-sash windows and paired 20-light wood-sash casements. A three-sided oriel window located in the western bay has 20/1 and 12/1 double-hung, wood sash. The west elevation has a single-leaf door located in the southern bay of the first story. Three, 12-light paired casements and a large storefront window complete the fenestration of the first story. All five openings have concrete lug sills and hoods. The second story is fenestrated by an alternating pattern of paired 20/1 double-hung, wood-sash windows and paired 10-light casements. Three shed-roofed dormers accentuate the western slope of the gambrel roof. Also exhibiting half-timbering, the dormers have overhanging eaves with rafter ends.

Supporting the single-family dwellings and commercial buildings that populated the City of Winchester were religious edifices like the Winchester Church of Christ, which was constructed in 1924 at the corner of West Cork Street and South Indian Alley. The imposing structure is two stories high with a rectangular form, set on a raised brick foundation. The Classical Revival-style church has seven-course, American-bond brick coursing interrupted by a cast stone water table on which the brick pilasters rest. These pilasters denote bays and visually support the central three-bay pedimented pavilion at the façade. The front-gabled roof has a wide pediment finished with a wide molded frieze and an ogee-molded cornice with returns. An interior-rear brick chimney with a plain cap rises from the north end of the building.

The façade has two double-leaf entries located in the outer bays. These paneled wood doors are surmounted by five-light transoms and pedimented stone surrounds. Three nine-light, wood-sash windows pierce the raised basement. Additional fenestration consists of three 6/6, double-hung, wood-sash windows set in the central bays of the first story. Six-light wood casements pierce the second story. All of the window openings have concrete lug sills and splayed brick jack arches. Fenestration of the side elevations includes round-headed stain glass windows set between a series of brick pilasters. Flanking these openings are six-light wood casements located at the second story.

Located on the northwest corner of the intersection of North Loudoun Street and West North Avenue is the former filling station at 501 North Loudoun Street. This gasoline filling station dates from the second quarter of the twentieth century, when the automobile began to dominate the urban landscape. The petroleum and oil industries recognized that the form of a building could be used for advertising, if standardized. Stations “not only had to attract customers, but they had to be attractive as well.... The oil companies sought to build stations that blended into residential neighborhoods....”⁶ The resulting station, of which the circa 1930 filling station at 501 North Loudoun Street is an excellent example, was made to look like a small house, which contained small offices, storage rooms, and public restrooms. From the vantage point of the motorists traveling by at high speeds, the “pleasant trappings of the roadside house conjured up welcome feelings of friendliness....”⁷ The successful attempt of the former filling station on North Loudoun Street to read as a single-family dwelling from the first half of the twentieth century is clear, especially when comparing it to the real thing, such as the house located at 15 Peyton Street.

Following this standardized plan, the modest one-story station at 501 North Loudoun Street presents a residential form with a modified Minimal Traditional appearance. Originally constructed as a two-bay-wide building, a complimentary service bay was erected on the northern end of the building in the 1950s when serving the automobile became just as essential to the industry as the sale of gasoline. Set on a solid concrete foundation, this concrete tile structure is veneered in stretcher-bond brick that has been painted. Cement asbestos shingles cover the steeply pitched side-gabled roof, which is complemented by ogee-molded raking boards that terminate in molded concrete cornice blocks. An interior brick chimney with a parged stack and defined corbeled stack completes the roofline. A single-leaf door to the office is flanked by a storefront window set in a metal frame beneath a soldier brick flat arch. The wide vehicular openings of the service bays have been partially enclosed with parged concrete; the suggestion of garage doors has been created by the multi-light windows in the upper half of the openings.

The influences of small house planning and the steadfastness of the Colonial Revival style in the twentieth century are clearly present in Winchester, documenting the growth and expansion of the city. Standing adjacent to late-nineteenth-century houses, the suburban dwellings in the National Register Winchester Historic District are typical of the mid-twentieth century. The form of these buildings, like those found at 210 and 212 South Washington Street, is rectangular, almost square, with a shallow-pitched side-gable roof and exterior-end chimney. Constructed of concrete blocks veneered inexpensively in brick, the houses present identical massing and plan—flipped to create mirror images—and have many of the same stylistic elements. These similarities indicate the houses were constructed by a speculative builder, who closely followed the edicts presented by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) in their bulletins for small house planning (1936/1940) and minimum construction requirements (1937).

Although the FHA made clear that it did not set standards for architectural styles, its predilection for the conservative and traditional design of the Colonial Revival was evident. It advised that “simple, direct designs which rely for their effect upon mass, scale, and proportion are more attractive, and the resultant structures are sounder investments than those which strive for picturesque or unusual effects through elaboration of motif and ornament or a startling use of materials” and that a “property should be able to retain permanent acceptance and not be so faddish that it is soon outmoded.”⁸ The resulting embellishments, presented on the builder-designed houses at 210 and 212 South Washington Street, included symmetrically fenestrated 6/6 double-hung windows with molded wood surrounds and sills, single-leaf entry doors sheltered by pedimented hoods or modest porches, side-gabled roofs with boxed cornices finished with ogee bed molding, and exterior-end chimneys with plain caps. A secondary entry opening was common to allow the American housewife more ease when bringing groceries into the kitchen, which was located at the rear of the first floor on the interior of the landscaped lot. The location of the kitchen and baths was always discernible by the size of the window openings, which were commonly larger or paired for the former and under-sized for the latter.

Constructed circa 1945, the three-story, three-bay apartment building at 208-210 West Boscawen Street is a restrained interpretation of the Colonial Revival style. This building is a perfect representative of the need for multi-family housing in a growing urban city like Winchester, and the post-World War II use of traditional architectural elements and materials. The builders of the Boscawen Street Apartments followed not only the prescriptions of the FHA for rental housing (1940/1947), but those presented for single-family housing and planned subdivisions. The telltale signs include the inexpensive concrete block construction veneered in brick; the unadorned double-hung windows, the smaller of which illuminate the baths and kitchens; and the restrained, yet traditional ornamentation that attempted to comfort residents by recalling the past, all the while blending with the surrounding nineteenth- and early-twentieth-century architecture. The flat roof, presented by the FHA as an economical alternative to a gabled roof, is finished with a brick parapet embellished along the façade by dentil molding, corbeled bricks, and rising piers. The single most stylistic element is the entry surround on the façade. The elaborate surround is comprised of pilasters, a wide entablature, paneled reveals, five-light sidelights, and a three-light wood transom flanked by sidelights. The building offers a total of twelve one- and two-bedroom units, two each per floor.

The house at 712 South Washington Street is one of several presenting the strong mid-century influences of the Modern Movement. Standing one story in height, this circa 1964 building has a ranch house form, which because of the size of the lot has been turned so the shorter end of the structure fronts the street. Indicative of the Modern Movement and ranch house, the house has a low, close-to-the-ground silhouette, with entry and window openings placed strategically to allow for informal living. Yet, this house lacks the private porch unifying the interior living space with the openness of outdoor living. Rather, a narrow entry porch, or stoop, leads from the paved driveway to the primary entry opening on the façade; this entry is well hidden from public view on the side of the projecting bay. A secondary entry, sheltered under the carport created by the very expansive overhang of the building's roof, allows for easy and efficient access into the kitchen. The house is clad in aluminum siding with a brick veneer used on the modest projecting bay of the façade. The combination of materials is common to Modern Movement-era architecture, especially for the ranch house. The use of brick was also a means of uniting this mid-century building with the nineteenth-century buildings comprising most of the City of Winchester. The product of a speculative developer, this builder-designed house is one of two nearly identical buildings; the other example is located at 611 South Washington Street (138-0042-1032).

ANALYSIS OF SURVEY FINDINGS

Statistical information was derived from the survey findings by producing computer-generated reports. These reports are designed to yield specific kinds of information for the appropriate analysis of survey findings. Some of the information entered into the database is factual, being based upon quantitative analysis; other information is valuative, and is based upon our understanding and evaluation of architectural and historical data collected during the survey. The computer-generated reports represent both factual and valuative assessments, and provide statistics on important trends and aspects of the built environment of the City of Winchester.

The following analysis is based upon a professional understanding of the historic properties and resources surveyed, taking into consideration the needs and requirements of the City of Winchester and DHR.

Identification of Properties

Each record in the computer represents a property that is a location defined by a perimeter measurement, such as a lot or parcel of land or a determined environmental setting. A total of 591 properties with the National Register Winchester Historic District were identified and surveyed during the course of this project. These properties were identified in two ways: first, by using Winchester Tax Parcel Maps as well as the Sanborn Insurance Maps (1885, 1891, 1897, 1903, 1908, 1912, 1921, 1927, and 1947), which indicate the sites of resources (i.e. the footprint of a building or structure); second, through visual identification of primary resources that were not indicated on the maps or noted in the 1980 National Register nomination.

Categorization of Properties

Each property record is initiated with the determination of a property category for the property as an entity. This categorization reflects the type of resource that is considered to be the primary resource and the source of the property's historicity. The five property categories are as follows: building, district, structure, site, and object. The definitions used are included in National Register Bulletin: How to Apply the National Register Criteria for Evaluation as follows:

- Building: A building, such as a house, barn, church, hotel, or similar construction, is created to shelter any form of human activity. "Building" may also refer to a historically, functionally related unit, such as a courthouse and jail or a house and barn.
- District: A district possesses a significant concentration, linkage, or continuity of sites, buildings, structures, or objects united historically or aesthetically by plan or physical development.
- Site: A site is the location of a significant event, a prehistoric or historic occupation or activity, or a building or structure, whether standing, ruined, or vanished, when the location itself possesses historic, cultural, or archeological value regardless of the value of any existing structure.

- Structure: The term "structure" is used to distinguish from buildings those functional constructions made usually for purposes other than creating human shelter.
- Object: The term "object" is used to distinguish from buildings and structures those constructions that are primarily artistic in nature or are relatively small in scale and simply constructed. Although it may be, by nature and design, movable, it is associated with a specific setting or environment, such as statuary in a designed landscape.

In Virginia, it is anticipated that a property will include at least one resource, usually considered its primary resource. The historic character of that resource is usually the basis upon which the determination of the property's overall historic or non-historic status is made.

The proper categorization of a property is dependent on the proper identification of the primary resource. For example, a property that includes a large residence built in the 1870s and several outbuildings from the same period would be categorized as a "BUILDING." Another property that includes a large residence built in 1995 near the foundation of an eighteenth-century farmhouse would gain its historic status from the archeological potential of the site that is composed of the foundation and its environs, not from the no longer extant original building nor from the new house; therefore, this property would be categorized a "SITE."

Determination of Contributing Status

The identification of properties and their categorization was followed by the determination of a contributing status for the property. For this survey, historic was defined as possessing the capacity to convey reliable historic information about the physical and cultural development of the City of Winchester and its significance within.

Properties were considered CONTRIBUTING if:

- The primary resource was constructed in or before 1960; or
- The resource possessed the capacity to convey reliable historic information about the physical and cultural development of Winchester, Virginia.

Properties were determined to be NON-CONTRIBUTING if:

- The primary resource was constructed in or after 1961;
- The primary resource was altered to a level that any historic integrity it might have possessed was significantly destroyed or obscured.

Primary Resources

For the entire Winchester Historic District, based on the data presently within the DHR-DSS database, 32 primary resource types were identified. The primary resource type noted reflects the building's original use unless alterations rendered that undiscernible. RECOMMENDATIONS

- Standards for Evaluation

The properties identified in the Survey of Buildings and Properties within the National Register Winchester Historic District have been evaluated on a preliminary basis for their architectural significance at the local level. As stated in the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Evaluation, evaluation is the process of determining whether identified properties meet defined criteria of significance and whether they should, therefore, be included in an inventory of historic properties determined to meet the established criteria.

In association with the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Evaluation is the Secretary of the Interior's Guidelines for Evaluation. These guidelines describe the principles and process for evaluating the significance of the identified historic properties. In evaluating the historic resources of the City of Winchester, both the Standards and Guidelines for Evaluation were consulted. As a first step, the guidelines suggest that criteria used to develop an inventory of historic properties should be coordinated with the National Register of Historic Places. In the case of the City of Winchester, listed as a National Register historic district since 1980 (expanded 2003 and 2008), the evaluation process was conducted using National Register of Historic Places criteria and Virginia Landmarks Register criteria.

The National Register of Historic Places is the official national list of recognized properties, which is maintained and expanded by the National Park Service on behalf of the Secretary of the Interior. The National Register of Historic Places Criteria states:

The quality of significance in American history, architecture, archeology, and culture is present in districts, sites, buildings, and objects that possess integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association, and:

- A. That are associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history; or
- B. That are associated with the lives of persons significant in our past; or
- C. That embodies the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction or that represents the work of a master, or that possesses high artistic values, or that represents a significant and distinguishable entity whose components may lack individual distinction; or
- D. That have yielded, or may be likely to yield, information important in prehistory or history.

The Virginia Landmarks Register criteria, established in 1966, are coordinated with those established for the National Register. The Virginia Landmarks Register criteria are set forth in the legislation as follows:

No structure or site shall be deemed historic unless it has been prominently identified with, or best represents, some major aspect of the cultural, political, economic, military, or social history of the State or nation, or has had a relationship with the life of an historic personage or event representing some major aspect of, or ideals related to, the history of the State or nation. In the case of structures which are to be so designated, they shall embody the principal or unique features of an architectural style or demonstrate the style of a period of our history or method of construction, or serve as an illustration of the work of a master builder, designer or architect whose genius influenced the period in which he worked or has significance in current times. In order for a site to qualify as an archaeological site, it shall be an area from which it is reasonable to expect that artifacts, materials, and other specimens may be found which give insight to an understanding of aboriginal man or the Colonial and early history and architecture of the state or nation.

Another consideration cited by the guidelines suggests that the established criteria should be applied within particular historic contexts. In the case of Winchester, the criteria were examined to determine how they might apply to properties within the given contexts. The historic contexts are synonymous with the eighteen historic themes developed by the VDHR and listed as follows:

Domestic Theme: This theme relates broadly to the human need for shelter, a home place, and community dwellings.

Subsistence/Agriculture Theme: This theme most broadly seeks explanations of the different strategies that cultures develop to procure, process, and store food.

Government/Law/Political Theme: This theme relates primarily to the enactment and administration of laws by which a nation, state, or other political jurisdiction is governed; and activities related to politics and government.

Health Care/Medicine Theme: This theme refers to the care of sick, elderly and the disabled, and the promotion of health and hygiene.

Education Theme: This theme relates to the process of conveying or acquiring knowledge or skills through systematic instruction, training, or study, whether through public or private efforts.

Military/Defense Theme: This theme relates to the system of defending the territory and sovereignty of a people and encompasses all military activities, battles, strategic locations, and events important in military history.

Religion Theme: This theme concerns the organized system of beliefs, practices, and traditions regarding the worldview of various cultures and the material manifestation of spiritual beliefs.

Social Theme: This theme relates to social activities and institutions, the activities of charitable, fraternal, or other community organizations and places associated with broad social movements.

Recreation and Arts Theme: This theme relates to the arts and cultural activities and institutions related to leisure time and recreation.

Transportation/Communication Theme: This theme relates to the process and technology of conveying passengers, materials, and information.

Commerce/Trade Theme: This theme relates to the process of trading goods, services, and commodities.

Industry/Processing/Extraction Theme: This theme explores the technology and process of managing materials, labor, and equipment to produce goods and services.

Landscape Theme: This theme explores the historic, cultural, scenic, visual and design qualities of cultural landscapes, emphasizing the reciprocal relationships affecting the natural and the human-built environment.

Funerary Theme: This theme concerns the investigation of gravesites for demographic data to study population, composition, health, and mortality within prehistoric and historic societies.

Ethnicity/Immigration Theme: This theme explores the material manifestations of ethnic diversity and the movement and interaction of people of different ethnic heritages through time and space in Virginia.

Settlement Patterns Theme: Studies related to this theme involve the analysis of different strategies available for the utilization of an area in response to subsistence, demographic, socio-political, and religious aspects of a cultural system.

Architecture/Landscape Architecture/Community Planning Theme: This theme explores the design values and practical arts of planning, designing, arranging, constructing and developing buildings, structures, landscapes, towns and cities for human use and enjoyment.

Technology/Engineering Theme: While the technological aspects of a culture form the primary basis of interpretation of all themes, this theme relates primarily to the utilization of and evolutionary changes in material culture as a society adapts to the physical, biological, and cultural environment.

Most significant, the evaluation process was conducted using the established historic contexts and defined significance outlined in the 1980 nomination for the City of Winchester. The historic district was recognized as significant at the local, state, and national levels under Criteria A, B, and C with a period of significance of 1752 to 1942.⁹ The areas of significance were identified as architecture, commerce, community planning, exploration/settlement, agriculture, industry, military, and politics/government. Utilized in the evaluation of properties during the 2008 and 2010-2011 surveys, the statement of significance from the 1980 nomination reads:

Located at the northern end of the Shenandoah Valley, the city of Winchester has played an important role in the state and national history. Settled during the mid-18th century as a small farming community, the town gained regional prominence as the county seat of Frederick County. By 1860 the town was fairly prosperous and had grown to moderate size. Travelers from both the north and east passing through Winchester on westward routes contributed to the city's rise as a trade and mercantile center. Others chose to settle in Winchester, their houses reflecting a rich mixture of architectural traditions. Winchester's strategic location in the Valley caused the community to figure during the French and Indian, Revolutionary, and Civil Wars. From the 1870s to the 1920s Winchester served as the commercial and industrial center of the Valley with glove manufacturing the leading industry. During the [20th] century, the city has become the center of the Virginia apple industry.

Architecturally, Winchester holds a wide variety of styles representative of all periods of the city's growth. Of special importance is the large number of late 18th- and early 19th-century houses employing either log or stone construction. These buildings scattered throughout the city impart visual cohesiveness to the historic district in their proportion, scale, and detail. While most are vernacular houses, many reveal a clear understanding of late Georgian and Federal architectural principles. Because of Civil War activity in the area, the town's growth was severely curtailed during mid-century. However, indications of regained prosperity by the end of the 19th century are clearly demonstrated by the numerous architect-designed Victorian mansions lining Washington and Fairmont streets.¹⁰

After determining how the criteria and defined statement of significance apply, the Secretary of Interior's Guidelines for Evaluation suggests that the integrity of a property be assessed. In evaluating integrity, factors such as structural problems, deterioration, and abandonment should be considered if they have affected the significance of the property. In surveying the properties in the City of Winchester, the integrity of the resources were evaluated using the seven aspects as defined in National Register Bulletin: How to Apply the National Register Criteria for Evaluation. The aspects are: location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association. The seventh aspect, association, was not always evaluated while conducting on-site survey work, and often required further archival research.

⁹ For the purposes of updating the survey documentation, the period of significance was extended to 1960. A future phase of this documentation project is the amendment of the National Register Historic District nomination to reflect this expanded period of significance.

¹⁰ National Register of Historic Places, Winchester Historic District, City of Winchester, Virginia, National Register #80004318 (DHR #138-0042).

Based upon the state and national guidelines and criteria, all of the properties included in the survey were evaluated for their contribution to the National Register Winchester Historic District.

- Recommendations for National Register Historic District Amendment

The existing National Register nomination for the Winchester Historic District was prepared in 1978 and the boundaries were expanded in 2003 and again in 2008. The period of significance for the historic district currently is 1750 to 1949. The DHR-DSS has 1,075 primary resources in the City of Winchester, of which 898 are contributing with the current period of significance.

This most recent survey effort has adopted 1960 as the proposed end date for an amended period of significance. However, the survey has shown that development within the city property had slowed markedly after 1949, recording only 57 properties constructed between 1940 and 1960 that would contribute to the historic district. Another 68 properties date from between 1961 and 2011, and would be considered non-contributing.

It is recommended that, when the National Register nomination is amended to reflect the updated survey documentation, the period of significance be reviewed more closely and not merely reflect the fifty-year mark of the survey but speak to the development of the City of Winchester.

- Recommendations for Survey Outside the National Register Historic District

With the completion of the survey of all properties within the National Register Winchester Historic District, it is recommended that the boundary be studied for expansion and/or the creation of new/separate historic districts.

Areas to be studied for possible expansion and/or separate historic districts surround the current National Register historic district boundary. Many of the properties marked for examination are already within the locally designated Historic Winchester District (created in 1967 and expanded in 1976), but require more current and up-to-date documentation. These properties will contribute to the architectural and historic themes established in the 1980 National Register nomination and expand the city's significance as not only a center of commerce and politics/government, but also as a residential community exhibiting domestic architecture from the early eighteenth century through the mid-twentieth century. A preliminary windshield survey suggests that many of the resources in the proposed expansion areas were constructed within Winchester's period of significance, utilizing common styles, forms, materials, and treatments.

It is recommended that the survey be organized so the expansion of the existing historic district is a priority, focusing on the properties along Amherst Street and south of Germain Street to Gerrard Street. Additionally, the property known as Edge Hill should be among the first surveyed. The survey should then document those neighborhoods on the northeast and southwest corners of the historic district, examining if these properties should be included within the existing historic district or form separate historic district(s).

Priority Survey Areas

The properties to the west of the National Register historic district fronting Amherst Street and Morgan Street, located in the westernmost segment of the local Winchester Historic District, should be surveyed and examined for possible inclusion. The large parcels fronting Amherst Street form a cohesive corridor lined with eighteenth-century buildings essential to understanding the residential development history of the city. This corridor transitions rather seamlessly into the rectilinear grid pattern of downtown Winchester. To ensure a comprehensive study is undertaken, all properties along this street, extending to the eastern boundary of the James Wood Middle School on the south and the western boundary of the Museum of the Shenandoah Valley, should be included in the survey. Those properties fronting Morgan Street are representative of the city's early- to mid-twentieth-century residential growth. Although contrasting with the architect-designed properties fronting Amherst Street that were established for upper-class residents of the city, the Morgan Street properties are builder designed and fundamental to the evolving history of domestic architecture in the City of Winchester.

The survey should also include those properties to the south of Germain Street between South Washington Street and South Kent Street, inclusive. The survey of this area should terminate at Gerrard Street. These properties reflect the historic context and the architectural statement presented in the southern and northern sections of the existing historic district, and, thus, would complete the story of the City of Winchester. Inclusion of this area in the existing historic district would create a simplified boundary that followed the arterial streets.

Finally, it is recommended that the property at 315 East Cork Street (138-0099), known as “Edge Hill,” be surveyed and studied for possible inclusion in the boundary expansion. This property, improved circa 1820, is also known as the Lauck-Senseny-Haddox Home. This stately residence is a visual and historic landmark that has been owned by some of Winchester’s most influential residents. The property is currently located within the local Winchester Historic District. A comprehensive survey should include the building at 215 South East Lane.

Secondary Survey Areas

Further reconnaissance-level survey should examine all of the properties within the city limits beyond the existing local and National Register historic districts, regardless of the construction dates for the primary resources. The following recommendations identify areas outside the historic districts that should be surveyed. These survey boundary recommendations are not intended to identify historic district boundaries.

The reconnaissance-level survey should examine and document the properties in the northeast corner of the current National Register historic district. Portions of this area are located within the locally designated Winchester Historic District but should be examined more fully. This area appears to share common traits with the development of the National Register historic district and acknowledges the city's residential context east of the railroad tracks. Yet, because of its African American historic context, this area may form a separate historic district. The survey area should extend north from East Fairfax Lane and Woodstock Lane, east of North Kent Street, and south of, but including, Liberty Avenue. North Fairview Avenue or North Pleasant Valley Road should, based a preliminary windshield survey, study of plat maps, and cursory research as it relates to an African American context, be the eastern border of the survey area. This survey study should examine East Fairfax Lane as it becomes National Avenue. A survey should aid in determining if this road, a visual and physical boundary, has a historic context related to the neighborhood to the immediate north, or the development of the existing historic district.

The proposed study area to the west of Washington Street, south of Joist Hite Place, represents the transition of upper-class residential development to that of the middle class, spanning from the turn of the twentieth to mid-century. These properties front South Stewart Street between Handley Boulevard to the south and West Boscawen Street to the north, extending west along West Leicester Street, West Cecil Street, West Clifford Street, and West Cork Street, as well as Lee Street. The properties fronting South Stewart Street should be studied for inclusion within the National Register Winchester Historic District and the local Winchester Historic District, illustrating how the city's residential development continued to evolve from architect-designed houses to speculative builder housing. Many, if not all, of these properties have never been properly documented and are not listed in DHR-DSS. The properties to the west of South Stewart Street, between Handley Boulevard and Joist Hite Place to, at least, Courtfield Avenue and Roszel Road should be examined for either inclusion in the existing historic district, or as a separate historic district that presents the early- to mid-twentieth-century suburban development history of the City of Winchester. Study of this area may extend south of and include the John Handley High School and the subdivisions immediately surrounding, to the west of Valley Avenue.
